

Contents

Children in Pre-modern Europe, Agents and/or Objects?	7
Bibliography	11
ELINA PYY, The Horatii Legend and the Ambivalence of Youthful Heroism	39
SONIA TAIAROL, Representations of Children and Juveniles in the Painted Tombs of Tarquinia	57
SANNA JOSKA, Symbols of Continuity: Greek Senatorial Families and Honorific Dedications to the Children of Marcus Aurelius and Faustina the Younger	83
VILLE VUOLANTO, Children and Work. Family Strategies and Socialisation in the Roman and Late Antique Egypt	97
MIKKO PENTTI, The Role of Servants in the Upbringing of the Roman Elite Girls in Late Antiquity	113
SARI KATAJALA-PELTOMAA, Learning by Doing: Pilgrimages as a Means of Socialisation in the Late Middle Ages	133
JENNI KUULIALA, Unlikely Heroes: A Study on Three Miracle Narratives of Disabled Beggar Children in Late Thirteenth-Century Hagiographic Sources	147
JUSSI HANSKA, Education of Royal Princes. The Case of St Louis of Toulouse	169
SVETLANA HAUTALA Why Did the Ancient Romans Put Toys in their Children's Graves? Interpretations from the Era of Antiquarianism to 20th Century Anthropology	179